Apple News

- Apple's next major event will be held Wednesday, September 9th in San Francisco. Expected announcements include new iOS devices and final details on the new iOS and OS/X software updates as well as ???.
- It's rumored that after Sept. 13, you'll be able to get AppleCare from Best Buy for the iPhone, iPad, Mac, and Apple Watch, the same services and benefits as AppleCare plans sold by Apple itself.
- Appointments are no longer necessary to try on Apple Watch. Walk-in customers now receive the same service for Apple Watch that they get for any other product.

Apple News

- Comcast has announced that it's testing an expansion of its low-cost Internet Essentials program for senior citizens in San Francisco and Palm Beach County, Florida. Internet Essentials offers download speeds of up to 10 Mbps and a Wi-Fi router for $9.95 per month for low-income households.
- Beginning September 1, 2015, Amazon no longer accepts Flash ads on amazon's web sites. Another nail in the coffin for Flash! 😊
- Best Buy will expand Apple Watch sales to all its stores in September. They initially expected to have the watches in 300 of its stores by the holiday season. But Best Buy has seen such strong demand for the Apple Watch, both in stores and online, that sales will be expanding to all 1,050 of its storefronts.

Apple Music Festival

- Apple's annual iTunes music Festival from London has been renamed the Apple Music Festival
- The 2015 Festival will include performances from Pharrell Williams, Florence + The Machine, One Direction, Disclosure, and more.
- The Festival runs from September 19 through September 28 at the London Roundhouse, and just as Apple has done in past years, tickets to the concerts will be given away through a lottery system.
- It will also be available on the iPhone, iPad, and Apple TV thru dedicated apps, or via iTunes on your computer.

iPad Pro?

- There are a lot of rumors on the internet about Apple introducing a new iPad possibly called the iPad Pro.
- It would be a 12.9 inch iPad (Current iPads are 9.7 and 7.9 Inches)
- Other reported features: a Force Touch display, a stylus, and a possible USB-C connection???

My Apple Experiences

Mail Settings

- All of a sudden, I could not send mail from my iMac. When I checked the mail settings, I found that on all my mail accounts (except iCloud) that the outgoing mail servers said “None”
- Fortunately on my MacBook Pro, I found all the correct settings.
- After re-entering all my outgoing smtp servers, everything worked fine again on my iMac.
- Learning: I took screenshots of all my mail settings in case anything like this happened again.

Hoe 'n Hope Garden Club Newsletter

August 2015

".....Nature speaks to us with symbols and signs; what a beautiful Language she speaks to us with her wildflowers." (unknown author)

Summer is fast fading away and we look forward to a new garden club year, filled with many opportunities to explore the wonderful world of wildflowers-atop to the wildflower garden at the University of Delaware; an in depth look at wildflowers through the eyes of horticulturalist Gregg Tepper, and an opportunity to learn about many colorful wildflowers through our monthly horticulture reports.

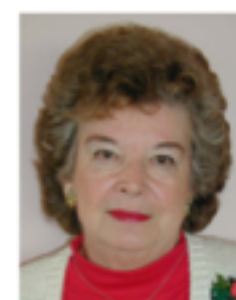

Our program topics will explore many other avenues of interest and enjoyment as we learn about heaths and heathers; how to "Garden Smart"; new techniques of leaf manipulation, as we welcome back Sarah Goetz for another informative flower arranging workshop, and exciting new information on "Good Weeds."

Mark your calendars for our monthly meeting dates - remembering that we will not be meeting in January and February.

"May your life be like a wildflower growing freely in the beauty and joy of each day." (Native American Proverb)

September Meeting

For our first meeting of the year, we will have a tour of The UD Botanic Gardens, conducted by the director of the gardens, Dr. John Frett. We will see their wildflower garden, native plant garden, herbaceous perennial garden and green house. Following our business meeting at the Church we will carpool to the university. It's not too late to reserve your spot but you need to contact Joan Peloso right away. You may pay Joan your $5 fee at the meeting.

October Meeting

Keeping with our wildflower theme this year, we will welcome Gregg Tepper back to speak on, "Wildflowers We Know and Love." We have invited Silver Pines Garden Club to be our guests and this would be a good time to invite any guests to share our program and also an opportunity for them to hear about the Delaware Botanic Gardens at Pepper Creek in Dagsboro, DE.

Preserving and Nurturing our Bio-Indicators

Our new National President, Sandra H. Robinson has chosen for her project to highlight the plight of our vanishing bio-indicator species: amphibians, monarch butterflies, and pollinators in hopes of reversing their decline. A book written by garden club members presents the challenges for frogs. Organizations that assist in educating and preserving pollinators are partnered for this outreach. She encourages us to... "Bee an Action Hero."

Lots has been happening at our garden project at AI High School: the brick pathways are installed, the pond is flourishing with beautiful aquatic plants, a shed has been built to house gardening equipment, native plants, trees and shrubs have been planted, plus an outdoor pavilion has been constructed for use as an outdoor classroom. There is a new gardening project called "Plant to Plate" where students will be growing a variety of vegetables for use in the school cafeteria and other community kitchens! Plans are to have the garden certified by the National Wildlife Federation as a Wildlife Habitat in 2016.
